Defined by exposed woods and an abundance of light, the classic farmhouse style is the ideal candidate for a minimalist treatment, done here with a light hand by designer Franco Biscardi and architect Brian Brady for a Bridgehampton living room. 1 / Freshly Churned: Nothing reflects golden sunlight better than creamy whites, nicely defined in this space with the pristine walls and soft taupe textiles used on the area rug and seating upholstery. 2 / Picture Perfect: Frame your surrounding landscape to full effect with wall-to-wall glass windows. In crisp white, the symmetrical fenestration injects some architectural girth to the towering glass while still conveying a sense of lightness. 3 / Wood Works: Fine oak finishes beautifully invoke that farmhouse freshness while preserving the space's reserved palette. Used here for flooring and built-in shelving, the furniture-grade natural oak creates a deliciously warm backdrop to showcase curated treasures. 4 / Shelf Life: Bring a handcrafted touch to the pared-down space with artisanal ceramics as accents. In a range of neutral tones, a selection of unique pieces introduces complex textures to the bookcase without disturbing the room's serene hues.
